The Leading Fashionable Theatre

OF CHICAGO,

PLAYING ONLY THE STRONGEST ATTRACTIONS.

A new modern theatre, built in 1881, and the largest, handsomest, safest, best-equipped and most popular house in Chicago.

Lighted throughout with the Edison Incandescent Electric Light—no gas whatever used anywhere in the theatre, and no fires, consequently no danger from fire, and absolutely safe—in this respect being the only theatre in Chicago so equipped. As there is no heat from the electric light, the theatre is by far the coolest in Chicago in warm weather, being at least 20 degrees cooler than when lighted with gas, and consequently the atmosphere is purer.

The theatre has been entirely refitted and redecored for the season of 1883-'84—new boxes, new aisles and exits, and enlarged stage—making it the most complete and comfortable theatre in Chicago, “the favorite of the masses, the great money-making theatre of the United States.”

The theatre is on the ground floor, absolutely, with not a solitary step to climb, unlike all the other South Side theatres, which have from six to eighteen steps to get on their so-called “ground floors.”

The same liberal, progressive and wide-awake policy that has prevailed in the past will govern in the future.

Open Every Evening, and Wednesday and Saturday Matinees.

THE PALMER HOUSE.

ONE of the institutions of Chicago of which every citizen is proud, and which the traveling public, that in perfect streams pass through the city, commend, is the Palmer House. Even before the great fire it was the model hotel of the West, and compared to the present structure it was but a small affair, but it was a fitting forerunner of the present splendid hostelry which Mr. POTTER PALMER began to build before the ashes of the fire had hardly cooled.

The location is the most convenient of any hotel in Chicago. Situated at the corner of State and Monroe streets, it is within the immediate vicinity of the wholesale and retail trade; the theaters are close at hand, and yet the guests are removed from the noise of traffic. The principal depots are but a few blocks distant, and the fact that the cable cars pass the State street front, renders the Palmer House comparatively near to every part of the city. It is absolutely FIRE PROOF, a desideratum which the sojourner in hotels, whether for a long or short period, knows how to appreciate. The materials used in its construction are brick, stone, iron, marble and cement. No other hotel in the world is as safe in this respect as the Palmer House. As for the service of the hotel and its table, no one who has stopped in it but will give words of praise to the management. Guests have their choice of either the European or American plans. That the graded system of rates has met with the favor of the public is evidenced by the ever-increasing patronage which is bestowed on the Palmer. In all other requirements which a really first-class hotel should present to its patrons, the proprietors have made it a study to provide the latest improvements, so that when one is a guest within its walls he may be certain that nothing will be left undone which will add to his comfort and convenience.

THE GREAT

Pan Handle and Pennsylvania

—> L I N E <—

Is now running Pullman Buffet Sleeping cars between Chicago and New York, making daylight arrivals in all the Eastern cities. The great advantage the PAN HANDLE LINE offers over competing routes, lies in the fact that its leaves Chicago every evening in the week about 9.00 P.M., and reaches New York and other Eastern cities about the same time as if you had left on the afternoon train of competing lines. Its track and equipment are in perfect condition, and, strengthened by the addition of through car service and improved facilities, it at once commands a prominent position among the leading routes from CHICAGO to the EAST, and asserts its claim to a liberal share of the large volume of travel between CHICAGO and NEW YORK.

FAST EXPRESS TRAIN

Take the PAN HANDLE, EAST, the next time you go.

The SHORTEST, BEST and QUICKEST line from CHICAGO to CINCINNATI, INDIANAPOLIS, LOUISVILLE and all points in the South and Southeast is the

—> GREAT PAN HANDLE ROUTE <—

and it is the only line running solid trains with Pullman Palace Sleeping and Parlor Cars between Chicago and Cincinnati. It makes two hours quicker time between Chicago and Louisville, via Indianapolis, than any other route, and is positively the only line offering the traveling public solid trains of Palace Sleeping and Parlor Cars between Chicago and Louisville. It has Union Depots everywhere. Its road bed is unsurpassed, being rock ballasted, and track laid with solid steel rails. Its bridges and culverts form substantial structures. Its equipment, the latest Pennsylvania standard, the highest grade of excellence known to the railroad world. Its management and discipline are of the first order; and the quality of its Pullman through car service equals if not surpasses that of competing lines. IN POINT OF SPEED, if figures talk, the schedules of its trains plainly show that it has NO RIVAL IN TIME.

THE GRAND PARLOR.

This magnificent drawing room is sixty-two feet in length by twenty-six feet in width. Your feet tread upon the finest products of the Axminster looms—a royal carpet, woven in one piece to fit this especial apartment, with its figures and designs conforming to the shape of the room. Vast mirrors are everywhere. The windows are hidden beneath the most luxurious satins, velvets and laces, wrought in elaborate designs. The tables are Florentine, and rare mosaics enrich the mirror frames. The mantel is a marvel of art worked out in different colored marbles; the chandeliers and candelabra are French. The upholstery is entirely of satins and velvets. The frescoings are of the most delicate and rare tints. The distinguishing feature of the room is its unlikeness to anything else. Everything is the development of an original idea, guided by a perfect taste.

THE GRAND STAIRCASE.

The Grand Staircase extends from the basement to the upper story. It is constructed of Italian marble, and is justly considered a perfect marvel of engineering skill. Each step and platform is cut from a solid block of marble, and so constructed that they support one another throughout the entire flight, combining great strength with a novel and curious effect. The balustrade is of cast brass, gilded and ornamented in keeping with the richly decorated walls surrounding them. There is but one other staircase in the world constructed in this manner, and that is the one leading to the whispering gallery in the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral, in London. The marble for this staircase was taken from the quarries of Carrara, Italy, and cut there, with such perfection that they fitted together perfectly.

THE EGYPTIAN PARLOR.

"Superb," is the exclamation which naturally arises to the lips when one enters this apartment of the Palmer House. It is situated in the northeast corner of the parlor floor. The visitor treads upon the heaviest of Wilton carpeting, that corresponds in shade to the upholstery of the furniture, which is of a rich maroon color. The chairs, sofas, and tête-a-têtes are inviting in appearance and the wood-work is fashioned after the true Egyptian style. Rich hangings of heavy maroon damask are in the windows, which overlook one of the busiest of Chicago's many busy corners. Three mirrors, beautifully designed, reflect the beauties of the room, and overhead is one of the most beautiful frescoes, designed and painted by a true artist. A piano of finest touch and tone occupies one corner, and in the middle of the room is a work of art in the shape of a center table which in itself is a study. Around the marble center piece of this table, which is inlaid with many-colored pieces of rare marble, is a rim of bronze on which are Egyptian bas-reliefs, and the whole forms a perfect study as a piece of decorative art. This center table was purchased in Europe by Mr. Palmer especially for this room, and is only another evidence of the perfect taste in which the hotel is fitted up. That the Egyptian Parlor is a favorite resort for the guests of the hotel is plainly evidenced by the fact that at all hours of the day the wayfarers, especially the ladies, may be seen frequenting the room. It is one of the standard attractions of the house.

THE BALL ROOM.

The élite of Chicago can tell of many merry hours passed within the walls of this room; hours made happy by the strains of a sweet orchestra and the tripping of light feet. The banquets of the prominent societies, both public and private, civil and military, which are given from time to time at the Palmer House, are rounded off by the ball which follows, and the Ball Room is a worthy mate to the Banqueting Hall. Down the center of the room, which is 140×40 feet, is a row of beautiful fluted columns, finished off with different shades of color, a deep brick red fringed with gold at the bottom, and white at the top. The chandeliers of polished brass reflect the lights which cast their brilliancy over the whirling pleasure seekers. The wax floor gleams with the rubbing it has received, while the walls and ceilings are painted in appropriate, pleasing and gay colors. The dressing rooms used are the private parlors up stairs, and every convenience is arranged so that the balls at the Palmer have become noted in the annals of the city for their gayety and unmitigated pleasure as far as the surroundings are concerned. It is only another evidence of the fact that the proprietors of this famed hostelry are progressive, and live not only to serve the traveler well, but to make this house one of the institutions of the city where its citizens may come together with their invited guests to enjoy "a feast of reason and a flow of soul."

THE BRIDAL CHAMBERS.

The Bridal Chambers of the Palmer are celebrated. The furniture is unique and costly, and the apartments cheery and bright, just such as "love's young dream" desires. The rooms, 26×30 in size, with closets and baths attached. In the frescoes are cupids and doves, wreaths of flowers, and filmy veils of lace. Rare articles of vertu are scattered about, and superb and costly paintings are hung upon the walls. The beds are surmounted by a canopy, in the French style, and their coverings are damask and lace. One would know that these apartments were bridal chambers were one to enter them alone without being told previously. It is an idea wrought to perfection by skillful taste.

GRAND HALL AND ROTUNDA.

This hall is twenty-eight feet wide by seventy feet long, in the Ionic order of architecture. The marble wainscoting so profusely displayed throughout the whole house, here has a particularly rich effect, there being thirty-four different kinds and colors of choice marbles used in the construction, brought from as many different quarries in different parts of the world. Passing through this hall, you ascend by two marble steps to the vast rotunda. You are struck by its height, its beautiful and graceful proportions, but its size does not at first appear, so perfect are its details, so thoroughly symmetrical is every point of its construction. It is sixty-four feet wide, one hundred and six feet long, and twenty-six feet six inches high, and decorated in all the grandeur of the old Roman Corinthian order, displaying more beauty in art and design than any other room in America. The floor, office counter (to which you pass through openings on the east side, and which is situated in a separate building in the interior court), wainscoting, staircase, etc., are all of Italian marble, modeled, paneled, and wrought in the most elaborate manner. To the left, as you enter, the grand staircase rises gracefully to the entresol floor, its marble newels being surmounted by huge griffins in bronze, and a massive Venetian mirror at the first landing reflecting the whole scene.

THE GRAND DINING HALL.

This truly royal saloon is the crowning glory of the Palmer House, as all who have ever seen it will bear witness. It is reached from all the main halls and corridors of the second floor. It is sixty-four feet wide, seventy-six feet long and twenty-seven feet six inches in height. The architectural decorations are in the rich old Corinthian order, treated freely in the modern French style. The ceiling is divided into compartments by girders and is supported by two rows of massive Corinthian columns, with gilded flutes. The walls are pilastered and corniced to correspond with the columns. A large window occurs in each inter-columniation, at both sides of the room, which renders the hall light and cheerful during the cloudiest days. At each end are monumental doorways, particularly rich in sculpture, statuary and bas-relievo. Three side doorways connect the main hall with other dining halls placed on either side, less in size, but no less richly decorated. These flanking halls can be made a part of the grand saloon by throwing open the large doors, which produces a grand effect. These auxiliary dining rooms are the supper room, 32×64 feet, the breakfast room, 29×64 feet, the sumptuous ladies' ordinary, 37×65 feet, and children's dining room, 37×45 feet. The frescoes are the finest in America.

THE RESTAURANT.

---

The Restaurant is a large circular room in the composite order of architecture. It is situated in a separate building, erected in the interior court, and is reached through a long hall, set with tables, from Monroe street, and also from the rotunda. This room is literally surrounded by mirrors, set in conformity to its circular shape. It is lighted from the dome, with a most unique and pleasing effect. The dome is supported on columns of marble, and the wainscoting and floor are also of the same material. Its square would be 48×56 feet in dimensions. The same elaborate style of decoration prevails here that characterizes the whole house, the tables being equally well appointed and served. Guests are accommodated either on the American or European plan.

THE GREAT KITCHENS.

One of the most interesting departments of the Palmer House are the kitchens, situated in a separate building erected in the interior court, with perfect ventilation through shafts at the top, a most important feature, as it relieves the house entirely from the odor of the cooking. This department of the great hostelry is indeed a curiosity. The visitor should view it while dinner is being served in the grand hall, and all is life and bustle. The most perfect order and system prevail, and the utmost cleanliness is apparent throughout. Each individual of the army of servants fits a place, and knows his duties. The whole moves with the precision of mechanism.

It would be of interest to the public could they know the exact amount of food daily produced and served from this department. In the busy season, when the house is overflowing with guests, the consumption of all the thousand and one things that enter into the cuisine of this caravansary is enormous.

Mr. Palmer made this department of the hotel an especial study, and brought to his aid the best experience in the world. The space devoted to it shows that it was not considered of second, but of first importance, in the hotel economy.

THE CLUB ROOM.

This apartment might appropriately be called the "marble" room of the house, for marble is the predominating feature of its construction. Like the Ball Room, it is designed to be used by the citizens of Chicago. Here, when it becomes necessary, as is so often the case in this cosmopolitan city, to arrange for the proper reception or entertainment of some distinguished visitor, when the leading merchants or public men of the city wish to quietly talk over matters of public interest, then the Palmer House Club Room comes into play as an important factor. Probably no room in the city has contained at one time so many men closely identified with the best interests of the city, who have met to discuss questions of public policy or features of public importance, as this room. And every convenience is at their disposal, while the taste and elegance of the fittings make it a real pleasure to attend a meeting within its walls. In size it is 60 x 30 feet, the floor is of marble tiling, while the sides are laid in colored marbles to the height of four feet. The furniture is of the best, and designed to meet the requirements of its occupants. Suitable tables are placed for the use of presiding officers, and chairs for the audience. An open fire place adds a home-like appearance to the apartment, and adjoining is a nicely fitted up toilet room. Leading citizens of Chicago need no introduction to the Palmer House Club Room, and a visit to it will repay any guest who may be in the house.

THE BAR AND BILLIARD ROOM.

Here, as in all the other departments of this splendid hotel, nothing has been left undone to make things pleasant to those guests of the house who seek relaxation. The floor of the room is set in many-colored marbles. The splendid marble counter, forty-six feet long, extends across the room in front of the bar. The sideboards shimmer with fine cut glass and handsome ornaments. The supply of liquors is of the finest quality and greatest variety. Experienced and suave attendants stand ready to concoct the most delightful beverages which the weary and thirsty traveler may call for. The billiard and pool tables are noted for their excellence of make-up and elaborateness of ornamentation. New furniture of the most costly and luxurious design has just been added, while the general effect has been enhanced by the placing of magnificent mirrors all around the room. Two cozy little side rooms, neatly fitted up, are at either side of the bar for the use of private parties. In fact nothing has been left undone to make the Palmer House bar the most attractive of any in the city.

PALMER HOUSE LIVERY,

Stables, 169 to 173 Michigan Avenue.

LERROY PAYNE, PROPRIETOR.

In connection with the advertised scale of prices of the PALMER HOUSE LIVERY, is shown the capacity of the Stable to discharge the business which it may be called on to do. The Livery owns forty first-class Carriages of the latest style, which for safety, durability, finish and easy riding are not surpassed by any carriage in this country. It owns twenty Coupés of the latest style, for ladies' shopping and pleasure riding; thirty light livery Buggies, single and double, of the most improved make and finish; seven Surrey Wagons, for pleasure riding and driving, with or without a driver; three dog carts, hitched double, for pleasure driving; seven Victorias, for park and pleasure riding and ladies' shopping; one Tally Ho Coach, four or six horses, as required, capable of accommodating forty persons comfortably, for pleasure riding, excursion and picnic parties. It owns two hundred first-class Carriage, Coupé, or Light Livery Horses. There are in the employ of the Stable one hundred and fifteen men, in various capacities, all of whom are boarded by the Livery at the Hotel connected with it. The Stable is lighted by electricity, generated by a twenty horse power steam engine, which also runs a Horse Grooming Machine, capable of cleaning fifty horses an hour, and cuts the mixed feed used in the establishment. The Stable does all of its own horse shoeing, there being a first-class Horse Shoeing Shop in connection, employing none but the best workmen. Also a Paint and Carriage Trimming Shop, where all Carriages and Coupés owned by the Stable are repaired and trimmed; and a Harness Shop, for making and repairing the harness required.

The appointments of the Boarding Department of the Palmer Livery are considered by good judges to be the finest in this country connected with a public stable, comprising seventy-five box stalls, each 11 x 12 feet, all wired; also a manure press, by which all manure is pressed in the Stable and from there taken by rail to Mr. Payne's Farm of three hundred and twenty acres located at Chebanse, Illinois, where is raised the corn and oats used by the Livery. There is also on this farm a stable, built at a cost of five thousand dollars, with one hundred box stalls, for the accommodation of the patrons of the Palmer Livery who may wish to avail themselves of it. Connected with this stable is an artesian well, three hundred feet deep, which guarantees a plentiful supply of pure, wholesome water, being the same as that of the South Park, so well known to the Chicago public.

THE BARBER SHOP AND BATH ROOMS.

This department of the Palmer House, under the personal supervision of Mr. Wm. Eden, is unrivaled. It is known as the "Garden of Eden." Not a place of the kind in the world is fitted up with such magnificence as this. The cost of the fixtures in the barber shop alone was $23,000, and of the bathing department, $30,000. The former, which is 40×100 feet in size, is furnished with mirrors on every side and over head, in which are reflected many times the burnished brass fixtures, the gilded columns and cornices, the marble walls and floors, the elegant plush and velvet sofas and chairs, the nicely dressed and silent knights of the brush and razor, and the merry whisk of the sable artists who wield the broom. In all, there are two hundred square feet of mirrors, one being 100×150 inches, the largest in this country. The washstand, which cost $3,000, is composed of seven different colored costly marbles, and over it is a handsomely designed marble arch in which is a pyramid of elegant French clocks that are set to the time of different cities.

THE BATHING DEPARTMENT

is a marvel. Every known bath can be had. Marble floors, marble baths and marble scrubbing beds are everywhere. In the "Macerecure" room twenty-different kinds of baths are furnished. In one room is a diving tank, 15×50, with a depth of five and a half feet. The "needle" shower bath, with its million sprays, cost $1,000. The Russian and Turkish bath rooms are fitted up in the highest style of perfection, and throughout the whole department nothing is wanting to make it the most consummate triumph of modern art and taste. Nothing like it has ever been attempted before and it is a crowning triumph for its projectors.
